

plague had preceded them. His wife and infant daughter contracted the disease and died within two days.

Dr. Dowling married the second time, Maria Sampson Perkins from New England. He had two sons by his second marriage. The first, Dr. John Dowling, M.D., was for many years Dean of the Homeopathic College of New York City. The other son, George Thomas Dowling, D.D. became an eloquent preacher and author.

- - - - -

Children of Gasherie II, and Jennie (Dowling) De Witt:

- I. IDA CHRISTIANA, b. July 27, 1850; d. Nov. 1, 1883, unmarried. The eldest of nine children and twenty-one years older than Elizabeth the youngest, she took considerable responsibility in the raising of the family, helping them with their lessons, making their dresses, supervising their behavior as the eldest child in a family has to do. She and her sister Helen also acted as instructors in the private school operated by their mother. She studied music in Europe, had a beautiful voice, and was teaching vocal music at Vassar College at the time of her death. Born in New York City. Essex Co., N. J.; Wills - 21629G. W.1885.
- II. HELEN MARIA, b. Mar. 24, 1853; d. July 19, 1914; m. May 19, 1880, Dr. Joel Gilbert Justin, b. Aug. 12, 1851; d. Mar. 27, 1911, the son of Joel Winchester Justin, M.D. and Elizabeth Hatfield, M.D. (Family #2.)
- III. LILIA DOWLING, b. Nov. 19, 1855; in Belleville, N. J.; d. Mar. 5, 1927 in ? Unmarried. She had considerable ability as an artist and designer and was accomplished as a poet.
- IV. JENNIE JOSEPHINE, b. Sept. 8, 1858 at Belleville, N. J.; d. Sept. 4, 1922 at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; m. Apr. 15, 1885, Henry Harrison Harvey, son of Jameson Harvey and Marie Stuart Campbell. (Family #3.)
- V. GASHERIE III. (8), b. Aug. 21, 1860 at Belleville, N. J.; d. Apr. 12, 1923 at Syracuse, N. Y.; m. Nov. 11, 1885,